CUTTIN' LOOSE CLUB OF WASHINGTON

The Cuttin' Loose Club of Washington (CLCOW), a non-profit organization, formed in 1984, promotes the sport of cutting and cow horses. Currently CLCOW is the only cutting horse organization located in Western Washington with a diversified membership from all walks of life and all parts of the state and Oregon. As a grassroots organization CLCOW caters to the needs of beginner cutters and professional cutters alike with a full roster of classes from the Open class with an added purse of $150 to the Green/Green (a beginner class with 1 horse/1 cow). CLCOW holds a summer show series that consists of 6 weekend shows with $450.00 in added money given out at each show along with optional jackpots. In addition to the added money and jackpots our members are also showing their horses for great Year-End Class awards and High Point awards in three divisions that are given out at our highly anticipated awards banquet in November.

Thank you in advance for your support, as it is due to the generosity of our sponsors that our shows continue to be a success.

WHAT IS A CUTTING HORSE?

A cutting horse is an animal that can single out a cow from the herd with lightning fast starts and stops, and then blocks the cow from returning to the herd with quick moves from side to side. The cutting horse seems to know which way the cow will go and blocks the cow without visible cues from the rider. This horse is not only invaluable to the working cowboy, but the center of attention at cutting horse shows around the country and they are a thrill to ride!

FACTS ABOUT CUTTING HORSE OWNERS

Cutters eat in restaurants, stay in motels, purchase many tires and oil changes for their trucks and horse trailers. Cutters buy boots, spurs, chaps, hats, jeans, and outerwear. Cutters buy tons of hay, grain, shavings. Cutters spend a significant amount on worming, vaccinations, horse dentistry, horse chiropractors, and farriers. Cutters buy wood products, hardware, lighting fixtures, and plumbing supplies for their barns. Cutters use tractors, 4-wheelers, and other motorized vehicles to make barn and field chores easier. Cutters also read newspapers, listen to the radio, buy homes, trucks, cars, trailers, shop the web, and take out loans at banks and credit unions.

As you can see cutters consume a lot of diverse products to support their love of cutting and at the same time help to keep the local economy humming along.
